10-YEAR MARKET CAPITALIZATION VISION

At Mineres, we envision achieving a market capitalization of $200 billion USD within the next 10 years, aligning with our mission to decentralize the global mineral trade, support research and development of rare earth metals, and incentivize ethical and transparent mining practices.

This long-term projection is based on the following strategic drivers:

- Explosive Growth in Rare Earth Demand: The global demand for rare earth elements is accelerating, driven by innovations in clean energy, electronics, aerospace, and AI industries. These critical minerals are essential to the future of global technology and sustainability efforts.

- Decentralization of Mineral Commerce: Through the Mineres Marketplace, we aim to cut through traditional inefficiencies and gatekeepers in mineral sourcing and export, offering a transparent, blockchain-powered B2B and B2C ecosystem. This includes a dedicated section on the Sociamakit platform to connect miners and sellers directly with global buyers.
- Utility-Based Token Model: MRS serves not only as a medium of exchange but also as a funding mechanism for R&D, community governance, and fair-trade certifications. As adoption of these use cases increases, so does the intrinsic and perceived value of the token.
- Rise in Global Crypto Adoption: The increasing global acceptance of cryptocurrencies by institutions, governments, and individuals adds significant momentum to projects like Mineres. As digital assets become more mainstream in both finance and commerce, the trust and usability of tokens like MRS are expected to rise accordingly, especially when tied to real-world industries such as mining and material science.
- Comparison with Industry Benchmarks: Several blockchain projects with narrower utility scopes have achieved multi-billion-dollar market caps within 5 years. In parallel, traditional companies involved in mining and material sciences maintain valuations in the hundreds of billions. Our hybrid model positions Mineres at the intersection of both sectors, with the potential to capture substantial value.
